PARVOVIRUS IS BACK!

We have recently had a large number of dogs requiring treatment for parvovirus. This disease makes your pet very sick and may kill them. The virus attacks the lining of the intestines and stops your dog being able to absorb nutrients and water. They are also at risk of blood poisoning from toxins which enter the bloodstream when they have the disease. Dogs that get parvovirus need intensive care.

Parvovirus is preventable!! Please vaccinate your dogs against parvovirus. Vaccinations should start when your pup is 6-8 weeks old. Whether you get a new pup or adult dog it is important to get them vaccinated. The cost of a course of vaccinations is far less than the cost of treatment or even worse - your pets life!

Please enquire about vaccinating your puppy or dog at Cowra Veterinary Centre.
